General Information

- Duration: 2 days
- Objectives: scientific outreach, business, networking.
- How does it work: all participants are expected to give a ten minute talk about a topic of their interest. Multiple talks are being held simultaneously, and participants can choose which one to attend. There are also extra activities such as guided tours, meals and social gatherings.

Participants

- Limited to 100 participants.
- There are also keynote speakers like astronauts Thomas Pesquet, Frank de Winne, Léopold Eyharts and Reinhold Ewald; writer and geologist Emily Lakdawalla; the director of the Rosetta Mission Philippe Gaudon; or the Director General of the European Space Agency.

Social Networks

- It is possible to reach more than 100.000 people through our own website <http://www.spaceupbcn.org/> and social networks, but also from our partners and sponsors': SpaceUp Foundation, Space Generation Advisory Council, European Space Agency, International Space University.
- Live broadcast via Periscope.

Help us!

- SpaceUp is organized by non-profit organizations and is entirely coordinated by volunteers.
- Our sponsors help us achieve our goal of reaching out to our community and keep our admission price as affordable as possible for our participants and volunteers.
